There were two changes in the teaching staff of the Windham Schools since the last report. Miss Muriel Nash, a graduate of Keene Teachers' College replaces Mrs. Maria Webber who resigned at the close of school in June. Miss Nash of Nashua comes to us after two years in the schools of Weare and Dunbarton. Miss Clara Marquis of Lawrence replaces Mrs. Cornelia Hinkle as music supervisor. Miss Marquis has had two years of experience at Vineyard Haven, and is a graduate of the Lowell Teachers' College.

With the opening of school in September a noteable step had been achieved with the completion and dedication of the new Center School. The joint school board and building committee deserves great credit for its part in the work. All had labored long and tirelessly toward the completion of the project. As a result the modern building which houses the first six grades is one which each and every citizen may well be proud.

There are several distinct advantages to be gained by the school set-up as it now exists with the primary, intermediate, and junior high grades taught by separate teachers rather than the rural school arrangement which existed in previous years. Since a teacher has fewer grades more time may be given the various subjects in each grade. Pupils may be taught to learn and live together more effectively when the ages of the pupils are more nearly alike.

The conditions under which the pupils of Windham attend school are more healthful than heretofore. The modern building with running water, good heat and ventilation and well-lighted classrooms are advantages which cannot be denied.

With the concentration of all primary pupils under one teacher it has been possible to install a modern basal system of reading in the first grade. It is our intention to adopt this system in the other primary grades in the future. This system which is designed to teach reading gradually should greatly reduce the inability to profit adequately from the printed page that faces many a pupil as he progresses in school.

Greatly needed literature, health and science books have been purchased for the seventh and eighth grades during the year. With the increase in enrollment it has been necessary to purchase additional geographies, histories, and readers for the intermediate grades.

Our attention should center on the following book needs for the coming year; language for all grades, more dictionaries, and additional reading and literature books.

This year has necessarily been one of readjustment due to our new school. Certain difficulties arose from time to time. An adequate system of transportation was necessary and has been provided. Details as to the administration of the new building have been fairly well adjusted.

The budget for 1940-1941 remains practically the same as for the present year excluding the special appropriation. Most items in the budget are unchanged—the slight increase in the total figure existing mainly because of elementary tuitions.

What is education anyway? It involves not only the teaching of certain facts but also the development of proper attitudes and ideals of citizenship. In short, it is teaching boys and girls to live together.

All of us—school officials, parents, pupils, and citizens in general—have a responsibility in the accomplishment of this work. May we fully measure up to our responsibility.
